A DEDICATION

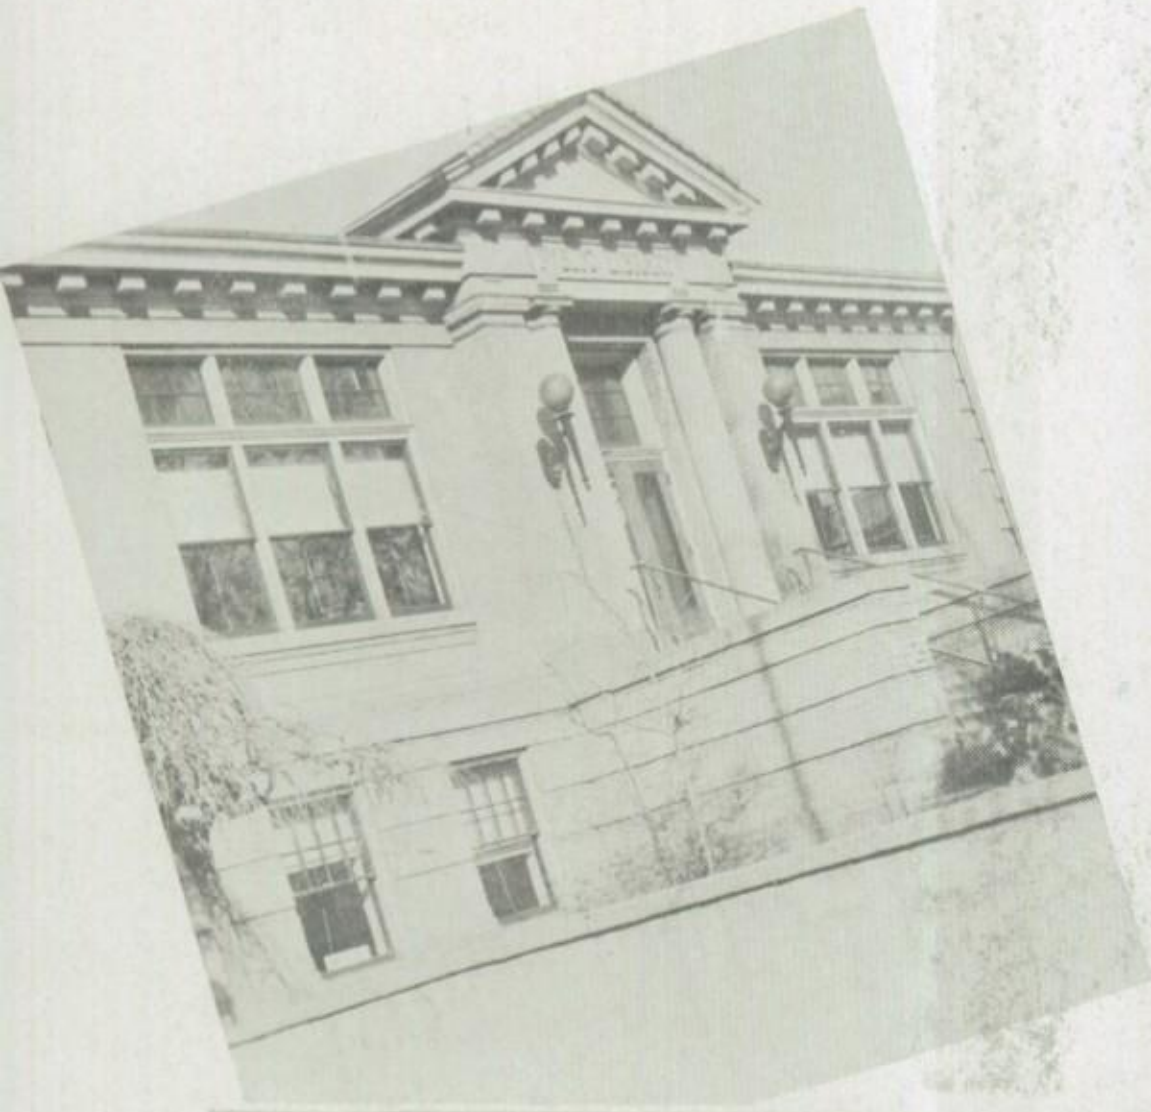

To the Business and Professional Men and Women of our community whose continuous interest in and loyal support of all our enterprises have made for educational progress, we, the members of the Class of 1947, gratefully dedicate this book.

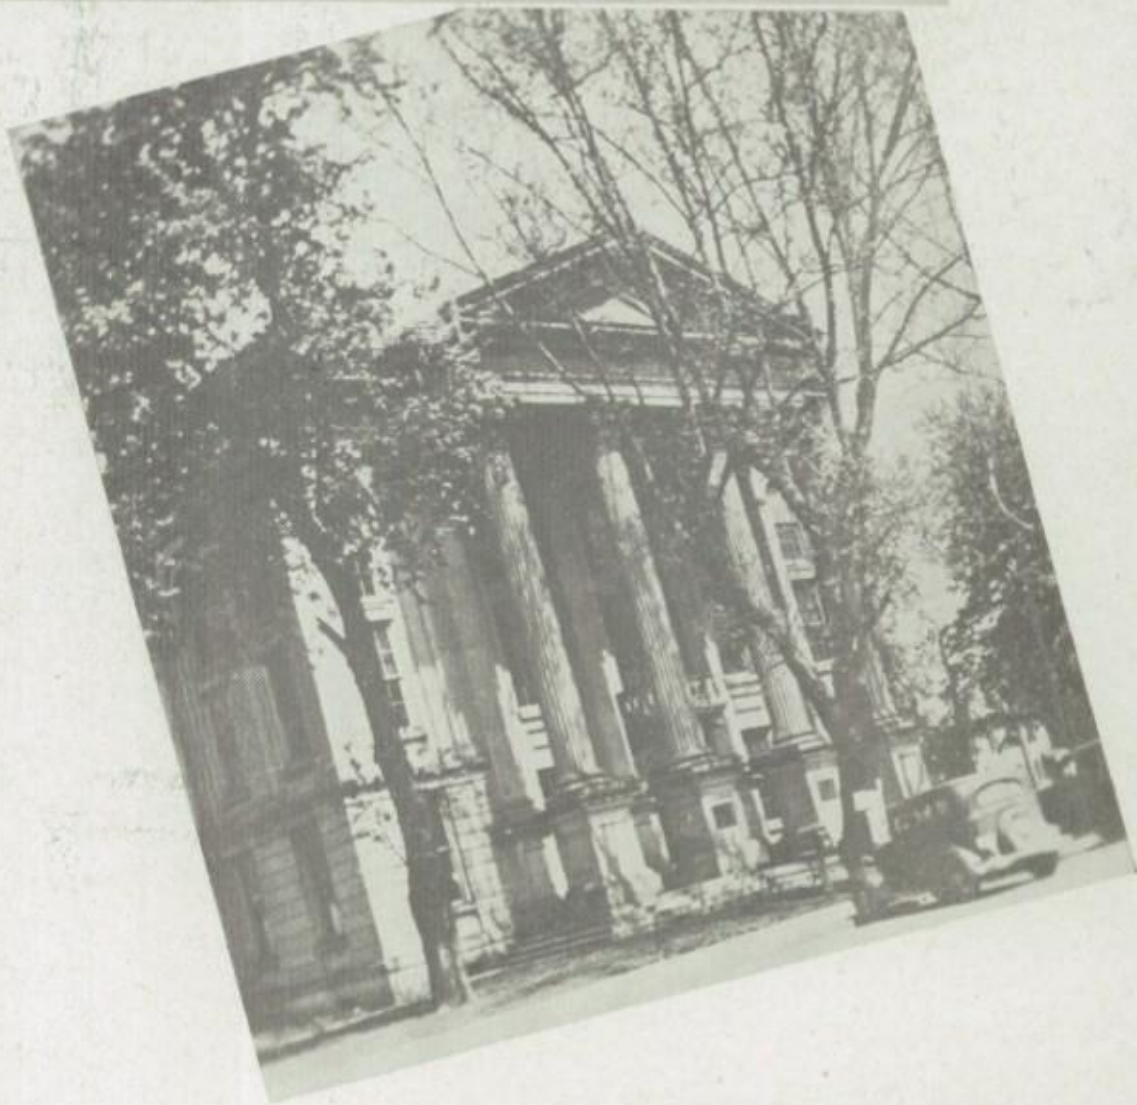

They Came by River . . .

Lawrenceburg, Indiana is a modern industrial city, proud of its progress and its levee that keeps the Ohio River from its doorstep. In its midst stands a memento of the past, the home of the founder of the city, known to us as the "Tousey House," located on West High Street and built in 1816.

Captain Samuel C. Vance was the original proprietor of the land on which the town was erected. The town was named in honor of his wife, whose maiden name was Mary Morris Lawrence, and whose grandfather, General Arthur St. Clair, was Governor of the Northwest Territory.

BOARD OF CONTROL

Responsibility for the kind of education boys and girls in a community receive lies with its Board of Education and school administrators. Students of L.C.H.S. are very fortunate in having the services of seven loyal citizens who, in the belief that with the young people of today lies our hope for peace and security of tomorrow, give freely of their time and knowledge to provide the students with the best education possible.

They offer to each student opportunity to choose the course which will best suit his needs. For the student planning to enter college, the academic course is offered. The commercial, home economics, vocational agriculture courses help those who will take their places in the world immediately after graduation. Elective subjects, offered to all students, encourage the development of individual differences.

The students of L.C.H.S. appreciate the work of members of the Board of Control in furthering the educational facilities available to them.

CAPABLE ADMINISTRATORS

Social responsibility stands high among those qualities which distinguish the "good citizen." It depends on a reasoned understanding and acceptance of a fundamental truth—that in American democracy each citizen must accept responsibility for both living a worthy private life and helping solve the social problems which confront the American people in their local, state, national and world communities. This challenge must be met by every member of this, the graduating class of 1947.

It has been my privilege and pleasure to have been associated with the 1947 graduating class of L.C.H.S. for four years. I am sure its members realize the terrific responsibilities that face them, both individually and collectively, in the post-war world, and, I feel certain, will do their part in helping to solve the social and economic problems that face us all in the future.

Good luck and godspeed, class of 1947!

DEAN OF GIRLS

Miss Bertsch is responsible for the attendance and welfare of every L.C.H.S. girl. Always lending an attentive ear, she hears our problems and helps us adjust ourselves to the school program. A cheery greeting and sound advice always await us within her office.

SECRETARY

In September, when she became administrative secretary, we extended a hearty welcome to Miss Juanita Hoagland, of Moores Hill, who, as time goes on, impresses us more and more with her efficiency and amiable willingness to help both faculty and students. She has made many friends among us.

Training for the future

Classwork at L.C.H.S. during the year 1946-47 has kept abreast of the times and proved both interesting and profitable. The biology classes, as usual, planted a chemical garden and watched it grow. In the language department, the French students learned their "Comment allez-vous?" and "Quel age avez-vous," while those studying Latin again ushered in the Yule season with their traditional singing of Latin carols in procession through the halls. The English students sought to improve their grammar and all forms of written expression, hoping for inclusion in the "Tiger Scripts," a little volume of the year's best prose and poetry by L.C.H.S. students. In the interest of "Better Health" and "Better Homes," the first aid class learned bandaging and emergency relief. Specialized courses in foods, clothing and home management met the varied needs of prospective homemakers. Freedom to read is essential to a democracy, and here, in our library—which numbers some 3300 books—is found the inspiration and stimulation from the ideas of the world's great writers.

SENIORS OF 1947

It seems only a short while ago that we entered L.C.H.S. and the seniors and underclassmen helped us to fit into the pattern of high school life. We carefully planned the tasks ahead of us, looked forward to wearing letters and honors and envied the seniors their diplomas.

As we approach the first of our educational goals, we relax and breathe deeply of the air of satisfaction that comes to those who have planned life's journey. Here, we pause before taking the next step toward our proper place in life, to reflect on four happy years of life at L.C.H.S.—years of training, of true friendship, of working and playing together.

In facing the future, we recognize the challenge of our own time—a challenge to the removal of doubt and confusion, the establishment of peace and security. Although we sang the school song for the last time with a lump in our throats, we go forth with courage and confidence.

JUNIORS

Hard Workers

Women have been getting men into trouble, "Ever Since Eve." This has been proved by the Junior Class play, "Ever Since Eve"

Susan Blake (Sue Schneider) spent three acts trying to get Johnny Clover (Don Standriff) out of the trouble which Lucybelle Lee (Jane Webb), a charming southern belle, caused. Spud Erwin, (Charles Green), Johnny's best friend, only added to the confusion.

"Have you bought a pencil yet?" became a familiar cry as soon as "Buy a ticket to the Junior Class Play," had become a thing of the past. Also in order to make money, the Junior Class struggled through the ordeal of making and selling pot holders, and the concession stand was always—always, that is—with us. Other things, sold in an effort to make money, were football pins, orange and black hats, and paper fluffs.

Are you wondering why all the money-making schemes? Because this year the Prom is going to be bigger and better than ever. And now, with various committees of energetic Juniors hard at work, our long anticipated Prom is sure to be a superb success.

Four of the five cheer leaders who backed our team to the limit, namely, Jane Webb, Barbara Roemer, Charles Green, and Nell Reed were members of the Junior Class. We hope they are with us again next year.

There were also a number of Juniors who helped make the "L Hi News" a success. They were Barbara Roemer, Phyllis Coghill, Charles Green, Jim Harrison, Grace Schmarr, Jane Webb, Gene McCann, Marjorie Lowe, Jackie Honchell, and Betty Connor.

Altogether it was a great year for the Juniors, and we look forward to having an "up and coming" Senior Class next year.

SOPHOMORES

Sophisticated

"Oh, look at the pictures! Aren't they good?" This was heard in the halls as the sophomores built up their candidate for "Harvest Ball Queen," Shirley Wildridge, who was elected at the dance on November 15, 1946, and received a bracelet as a token and symbol of her election.

The Sophomores had not only beauty but brawn. The football and basketball teams were not lacking for Sophomores. In football Robert Finkbine, William Jones, Melvyn Lacey, William Tonne and John Brunner played hard and well for the glory of old Lawrenceburg High!

Mary Jane Clause, a loyal Sophomore, was one of the five cheer leaders who kept the cheering section so well under control.

Wanda McMullen, Mary Jane Clause, and Laurena Sharp represented the Sophomore Class on the "L Hi News" staff.

They're New But

It seems that the halls of L.C.H.S. are just coming out of the greenness brought in by this outstanding class of '50. Ready and willing to further their education, these students entered our doors on September 3 with all the lights of courage in their eyes. (It takes courage to face a bunch of upperclassmen for the first time). Yes, we did our share of bantering, but it was of no avail, for these boys and girls were too proud of the fact that they were finally in high school, preparing to go into the world and make names for themselves.

Since 1946-47 was such a big year in the world of sports for L.C.H.S., this freshman class has hurried to really get into the swing of school activity. However, a number of its students have

With such a goodly share of ambition and the eager zest for participation in school affairs, coupled with the capacity for hard work, this class is moving toward a position of eventual leadership.

ANNUAL STAFF

"We must meet the deadline!" was often heard as members of the Orange and Black staff, under the guidance of their faithful editor-in-chief, Marjorie Stryker, worked diligently toward completing their 1947 book of high school memories.

The eight senior members of the staff were able to step into their tasks without difficulty, due to the fact that they had gained knowledge of annual work in their junior year.

A note of thanks goes to everyone who helped the staff in any way. Especially, the staff expresses appreciation for the experienced and kind help secured from their sponsors, Miss Ruth Kirtley and Miss Joan Devin.

L HI NEWS STAFF

Under the new sponsorship of Miss Joan Devin, the L Hi News entered its thirtieth year of publication. It is published semi-monthly by the journalism class, which gives both pleasure and information to the student body through its columns.

HISTORY CLUB

This year the sponsorship of the History Club was given to Miss Gompf, one of our new teachers in L.C.H.S. Although her group has been rather small, its members have displayed as much enthusiasm in their work as those of previous years.

The club was divided into groups which alternately planned the programs for the meetings. Now the members have just begun a spring project.

Miss Gompf plans to draft a Constitution on which to base the History Clubs of the future. Her plans for the future also include a study of Indiana history, particularly of Lawrenceburg and the surrounding locality.

The annual Christmas party was the social event of the year. Gala decorations, refreshments, and dancing made the party its usual success.

Under the able leadership of Miss Smith, members of the Girls' Athletic Association add to their training and pleasure in the field of sport by earning points in archery, bowling, bicycle riding, hiking, basketball, volley ball, baseball, and riding.

Here are the boys who wear a coveted "L", symbol of achievement in sports. They have earned this badge of valor by participating in football, basketball, baseball and track. They continue to promote interest and good sportsmanship in the field of athletics.

Perhaps some of the fondest memories of the year can be recalled by this snow scene. Widely known to the students of L.C.H.S., Schnebelt's pond can be visualized as the scene of colorful activity, gay laughter, and exciting happiness. Hardly a person goes through the skating season without pleasant memories of a gay skating party on this pond. We thank Mr. Schnebelt for his gracious hospitality.

Moonlight added little beauty to the disaster of the 1937 flood. It cast long shadows over the silent city which was once bright and gay. After a period of ten hard years, the city is again a beauty spot set in scenic southeastern Indiana.

BIOLOGY CLUB

Do you know your bird calls? What with reports, records and study of their habits under the guidance of Miss Jeffers, the Biology Club members have become well informed in that field, even studying wild life along the Ohio and Miami Rivers. An unusual experience was observation of the White Egret at the Miami River. Plants and animals have received a fair share of study. Some animal dissection has been done. In line with their avowed purpose of gaining knowledge of all phases of natural life and surroundings, they plan a number of spring hikes. Officers of the club are: President, Carl Jones; vice-president, Carlyle Moreillon; secretary, Patsy Kennedy; treasurer, Jane Clark.

TRI HI-Y

Training For Leisure

A record-breaking enrollment of fifty-two members in the Tri Hi-Y has inspired them to do bigger and better things this year.

Under the leadership and example of Miss Jeffers, who has sponsored the club for the past three years, the girls have tried to live up to their purpose, "to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community, high standards of Christian character." Group church attendance and the Christian spirit that is maintained during their meetings have been expressions of that high and fine purpose.

Their social calendar consisted of a formal initiation at the Baptist Church, a Christmas party for under-privileged children, a Hi-Y and Tri Hi-Y dance, a Mother-Daughter Valentine party, and trips to Connersville and Brookville for district conferences.

HI-Y

Training For Life

The pledge "To create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character," was taken by those initiated into the Hi-Y this year. In carrying out this avowed purpose, various speakers have appeared before the group from time to time. Being a junior Y.M.C.A., the boys and a sponsor have enjoyed visiting the organization in Cincinnati on several occasions. Those going to camp this summer, will further enjoy religious instruction, and healthful outdoor sports.

The participation of Stanley Batchelor, president, and James Harrison, assistant chaplain, in the Junior Town Meeting of the Air program over Station WSAI brought favorable mention to the organization. The club's sponsors are Mr. Griggs, Mr. Wright, Mr. Volland.

Melody Lingers On

Thanks to the band, we had music at the football and basketball games even if the candy and chewing gum were scarce.

This year the band was given new uniforms by the Lions Club; therefore, they appeared quite often in uniform and marched at several football and basketball games.

Under the direction of Mr. Marlette, the L.C.H.S. Band always travels to Bloomington for the state Band Contest. It has the reputation of being one of the best musical units in southeastern Indiana, and every year sends its most outstanding talent to the State Solo Contest at Terre Haute.

The officers of the band are: Charles Steuver, president; Elmer Posey, vice-president; Rosemary Calvert, secretary; Don Standriff, drum major; Frank Brauer, manager; Marie Benning, librarian; Charles Steuver and Rosie Morris, 1st musicians; Charles Green and James Harrison, 2nd musicians; Rosemary Calvert and Russell Freeland, 3rd musicians; Joseph Brauer and Elmer Posey, colorguards; Wilbur Standriff and Edgar Cheever, flag-bearers; Jane Webb and Virginia Miller, majorettes; Herbert Cohen and Carolyn Kern, student directors.

CHOIR

Beside our band, the choir is the other musical unit at L.C.H.S.

This year brought the choir together again with an unusually large enrollment, and from the very beginning the activities were entered into with the same enthusiasm which has been manifest throughout each year.

Before the closing of school for the Christmas vacation it was the privilege of this organization to present to the student body a musical program the numbers of which were particularly suited to the season. Miss Devin was the soloist.

The choir also presented an operetta, "Jerry, of Jericho Road," in which Rosemary Calvert took the main part of Jerry.

This mixed chorus was under the direction of Mr. F. N. Marlette.

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE CLUB

Mr. Wright is leader of the boys who are especially interested in automobiles and other mechanical devices. They like to take apart and rebuild things in the shop, as well as making useful articles for the home.

However, since they intend to be farmers, we see them working with a grain and seed testing germinator, soil testing kit, Babcock milk tester, egg candling equipment, veterinary supply kit, cattle hoof clippers and shear master. Too, they visit different farms and learn from actual performance sheep shearing and other projects. They help maintain the fine appearance of the school grounds by trimming shrubbery. The entire school enjoys the Harvest Ball arranged each year by the members of this club.

HONOR GROUPS

Orchids to these fine folk of whom we are all proud—ten seniors, five juniors, six sophomores and ten freshmen! Why? Led by the ambition to succeed, scholarship has been the goal on which their efforts have concentrated. For, realizing that the classroom of today is but a preparation for the world of tomorrow, these students are looking to the future value of scholastic accomplishment. They have consistently striven toward the goal of excellence in that field. They have maintained an average of "B" or above through all their high school years and, therefore, can view the record with satisfaction and the future with confidence. To this group, we offer "honor to whom honor is due."

DRAMATICS CLUB

With the help of Miss Ruth Bertsch, director of dramatics in our school, the students of drama plan club programs designed to cultivate dramatic skill. Plays are read and various questions discussed. This year, attention has centered on the reading of radio plays. What with reading skits and practicing microphone technique, many a club member was able to visualize himself as a future Raymond Massey or Helen Hayes.

The students are indebted to the Dramatics Club for bringing to L.C.H.S. one of the most entertaining convocations of the year. On November 8, Mrs. Duncan of Western College for Women, presented the Tatterman Marionettes to the students and faculty. Everyone greatly enjoyed the fine program obtained through the club's sponsor, Miss Bertsch, who is an alumna of Western College.

The club has been invited to present a radio program, in the near future, from the broadcasting studio of Western College at Oxford. The college extends this opportunity to various high schools from time to time. Great interest at-tachs to the prospective trip and program.

The excellent work of Miss Bertsch with the students of drama this year is recognized and appreciated.

The Junior Class Play, "Ever Since Eve," was held in the gymnasium, November 8th, with Don Standriff, Jane Webb, Sue Schneider, and Charles Green taking the leading parts.

A delightful comedy in three acts written by Florence Ryerson and Collin Clements, it was sponsored by Miss Bertsch.

In the play, a studious boy takes life more seriously than his classmates and is editor of the high school paper. The trouble comes when the sponsor of the paper appoints girls to the staff.

Other members of the cast included: James Harrison, Sheila Ross, Rita Knue, Marvin Knippenberg, Robert Vest, Roger Kittle, Jacqueline Honchell, Donald Corns, Rodney Gray, and Kenneth Fox.

LIBRARY ASSISTANTS

The duties of a library assistant are both important and enjoyable. Library work enables the assistants to secure a wider knowledge of the book world.

Miss Ruth Kirtley patiently teaches her assistants duties that make their work important. They assist her greatly by checking out-going and in-coming books and periodicals for students. However, they have several other duties among which are reading the book shelves, stamping new books, typing and filing cards, repairing and reinforcing books and magazines, and helping students find materials in any way they can.

It seems that the most enjoyable duty is the preparing of new books for the library shelves. Every new book must be properly opened, and in doing so, the assistants are able to enjoy some of the material as they turn the pages. They gather bits of news, and here and there are able to gather bits of valuable material for their studies.

As students of L.C.H.S., we thank the library assistants for the kind help they give us.

SNAPSHOTS

Let us see, and let me introduce Mary Jane, Neil, Bee, Charles, and Jane—the cheerleaders who have backed our wonderful team this year.

It's beauty(?) on parade as these five lovelies pause to watch the birdie.

Love must be grand from the outlook of these two.

Sue Schneider, who starred in "Ever Since Eve," has proved herself an actress as well as a heart crusher.

Marge Stryker's time is split half and half; part to edit the Orange and Black, the rest is reserved for the Army.

Watch out girls, they're wolves in boys' clothing.

Carolyn Kern has been the school accompanist for four years. She is also very active in other school organizations.

ATHLETICS

It was in 1937 that the Gardner Scholarship-Sportsmanship Trophy was first awarded. It is presented each year to the most valuable basketball player of that year.

The donors of this prize trophy are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gardner, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gardner, Jr. Although the trophy was first inaugurated in 1937, during the past world conflict it was discontinued due to the scarcity of materials. It will be presented to the boy receiving the highest vote of an unknown committee at the annual athletic banquet held in the spring.

Under a ruling recently made concerning awarding of the trophy, no boy may receive it more than one year.

Roy Gardner, Jr., finished his scholastic and athletic career at L.C.H.S. in 1936. "Mush," as he is sometimes called, was another outstanding athlete, especially in basketball, in which he starred for three years on the varsity.

After graduation he completed four College years at Ball State Teachers College, and is now teaching at Batesville, Indiana.

One of two awards to be made annually is the Roy B. Neary Memorial Trophy. A football award, it is given by S. W. Neary, father of the late Roy B. Neary, to the outstanding L.C.H.S. football player of the year. The initial recipient of the Neary Memorial is Paul Tremain, Jr., who filled his position as right tackle and as captain, and lived up to the requirements of the trophy.

Roy B. Neary, a sports loving boy, was a graduate of this school in 1935. Although he was not a football participant, he was a three-year letterman in basketball, and for three years a member of the track and baseball teams.

After graduation, he entered St. Xavier University, and here he gained recognition in the football field, playing on the varsity team for three years. Graduating in 1939, he later entered the Army Air Forces. It was over India on March 31, 1943 that Roy made his last flight.

Very fittingly, his memory is perpetuated through the Roy B. Neary Trophy.

This quintet is well known by everyone in L.C.H.S., but for the benefit of others who don't know, their names are listed. Following our teams during both basketball and football games, they no doubt contributed a good part to our wins. They showed exceptional originality in composing new "yells" for the students. That they constitute one of the best cheerleading teams Lawrenceburg has ever had is beyond doubt.

In their '46 season, our pigskin-packing Tigers accomplished what we knew they could, once they got rolling. Their first two seasons of eleven-man football, which was revived in Lawrenceburg after a lapse of 30 years were not too successful. This year, however, the Tigers were victorious in six out of seven games, defeating in several of the toughest contests, teams reputedly much stronger than they.

Their first game with the Woodward Bulldogs got our Tigers off to a flying start. Playing before the largest crowd ever to witness a Lawrenceburg football game, our Tigers avenged last year's season opening loss to Woodward by winning this contest 13-0.

In their second tussle, the Tigers outclassed the Seymour Owls, leading them all the way, and winning by 22 points with the whole second string finishing out the last quarter.

Lawrenceburg's third scheduled game with Newport High was cancelled by mutual agreement and the Tigers were disappointed when neither Elder nor Roger Bacon could come to fill up their schedule.

In their third game, the Tigers trounced the Aurora Red Devils 60-0, with a liberal number of second stringers finishing the game. However, the Aurora eleven was in the same boat that Lawrenceburg was in two years ago, due to the fact that they revived the eleven-man game only this year.

The Tigers romped on to their fourth triumph, defeating the Rushville Lions 34-0 in spite of ankle-deep mud, which almost caused the game to be cancelled.

This was a comparatively easy win for the Tigers, who were used to playing under all kinds of weather conditions.

The contest with the Richmond Red Devils was undoubtedly the "game of the season." After trailing 14-0 the first half, the Tigers made a brilliant second-half comeback, proving their indomitable spirit. This near-loss proved to all witnesses that our team had a fighting spirit and the ability to pull a game out of the fire when the odds were against them. The final score was 25-14.

The Tigers also proved their mettle on "foreign soil" by whipping the Connersville Spartans 26-0 in their first away-from-home game of the season. The boys are to be commended for keeping their play clean in this game.

The climax of an otherwise perfect season materialized in the form of a 14-7 defeat by the Columbus Bulldogs on the "Dogs" home grounds. Although the Tigers held a 7-0 lead for three quarters, the Bulldogs waited their chance and racked up 14 points while both the good Lawrenceburg double reverse and on-side kick went by the board on timing. The Tigers seemed cold in playing, but made it up in sportsmanship.

No one team member can be congratulated without saying something about all of them, so great was the teamwork and determination displayed by the boys. Under the skillful leadership of "Pat" O'Neill and "Bud" Bateman, the Tigers completed what is probably the most successful football season since football's beginning here more than three decades ago.

In their only home game that wasn't played on a muddy field, Coach Pat O'Neill's boys gave their friendly rivals from down the river, the Aurora Red Devils, a thorough going over. When the final gun sounded, the scorebook read, "Lawrenceburg 60; Aurora 0."

Several of the touchdowns in this tussle were made by second stringers.

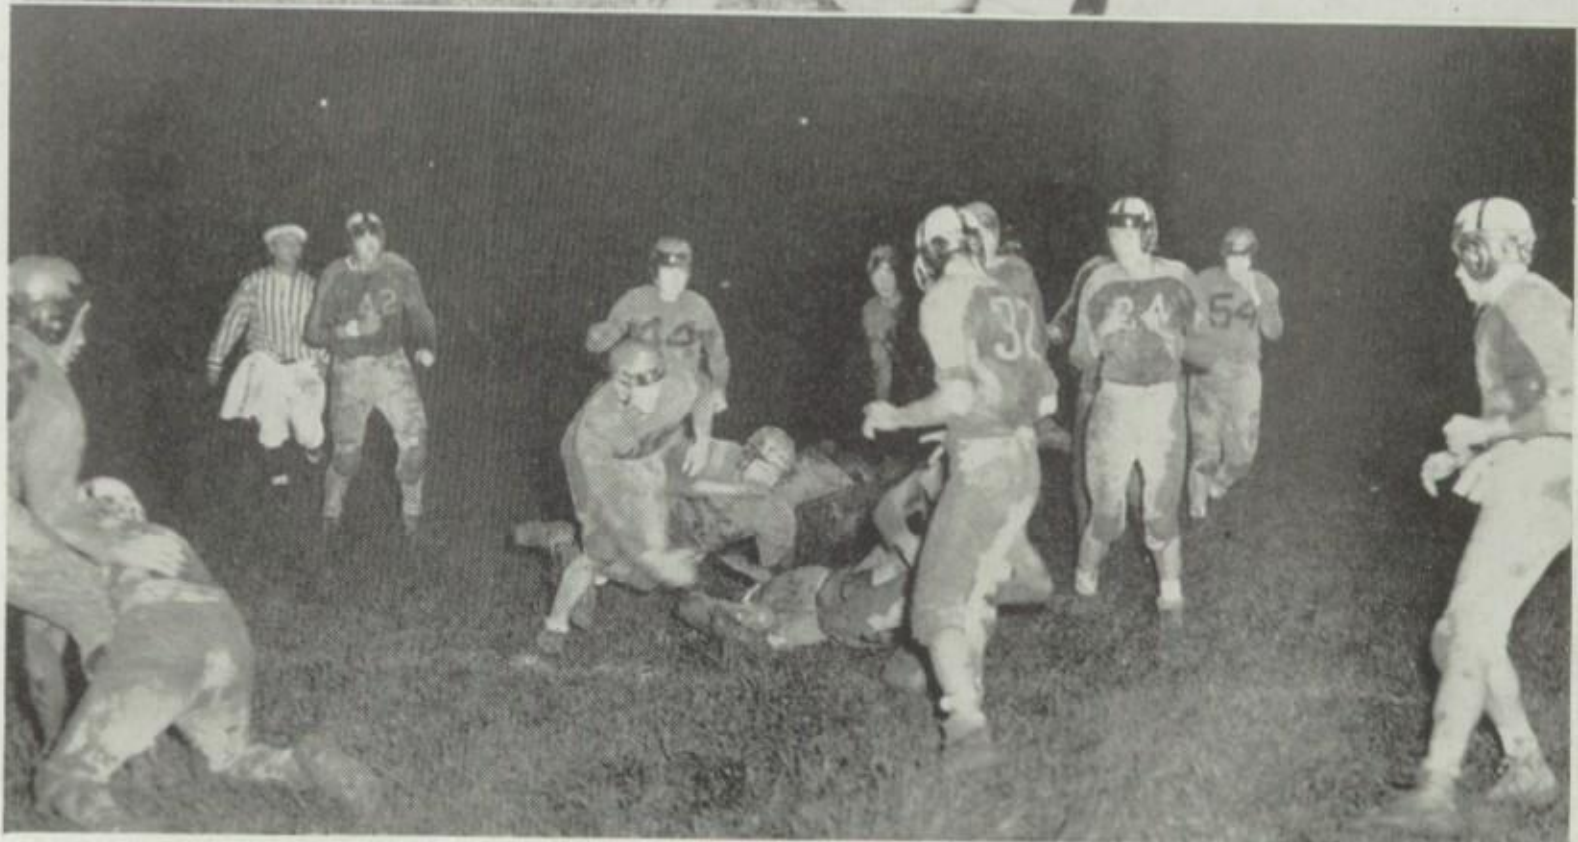

The above picture, taken during the third quarter of the game, gives a good description of the hard working, but seldom publicized line. In the background Heitman, Tiger back, is No. 46. Ready to block his man, is Sheets, No. 50. Cohen is blocking No. 20. All three are second stringers, with the latter two linemen. Wedged between No. 55 and No. 7 is Roush, another lineman.

As is indicated by the mud and water on the players' uniforms, the game pictured above was played on the muddiest, wettest gridiron the '46 Orange and Black footballers encountered. Although there was no rain during the game, it poured from the sky until an hour before game time.

Tiger players visible are all linemen. In the foreground, No. 32, looking down on a

BASKETBALL

Similar to the Neary Trophy is the Bill Dennis Memorial Trophy. To be presented for the first time to the outstanding basketball player of the year, the trophy comes from an anonymous source. Presentation of this award will be made at the annual athletic banquet in the spring.

A paratrooper in the second World War, Bill Dennis made the supreme sacrifice. He enlisted in the paratroops on June 4, 1942 and was killed in action during the 1944 invasion of France.

Bill, who for two consecutive years won the Gardner Trophy, was another athletic great at L.C.H.S. His winning smile accounted for the host of friends he had throughout this section of the state as well as in his home town. He was a regular on the Orange and Black basketball squad for four years as well as a star on the baseball and softball teams.

Graduating in 1941, he entered Kentucky Wesleyan College in the fall. He completed his freshman year and then entered the service.

He is gone, but his fine spirit will always be remembered.

Two of the smartest and ablest sports mentors ever to coach at L.C.H.S. are George "Bud" Bateman and William "Pat" O'Neill.

The best known of the two, Mr. Bateman, basketball coach and head of the athletic department, had, in his six years of basketball coaching at L.C.H.S., compiled approximately 90 victories, while losing only 28.

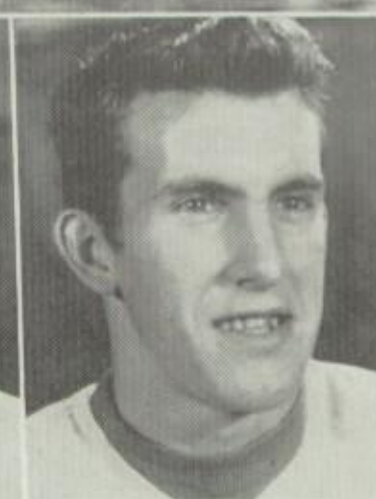

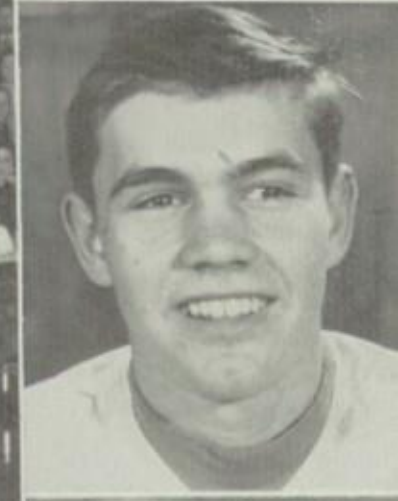

Upsets and tricky plays were Coach O'Neill's specialty and, as the scorebook shows, he really knows his business.

BASKETBALL

Our Tiger Team's scorebook speaks for them better praise than any writer could possibly give. According to Mr. Bateman, their phenomenal record, of 19 wins and only 1 loss, is due to their capacity for hard work, which in turn, brought about a show of teamwork never quite equalled by their predecessors at L.C.H.S.

Some of the contests ended with too close a score for comfort, notably the Liberty game in which the Tigers nosed the Warriors out by 2 points. As the final gun of the Franklin game was fired, our Tigers led by the comparatively small margin of 4 points. For the most part, the tussles were merely "warm-up" practices for the boys, the Tigers so far outclassing their opponents that the ratio of the final score was often as much as 2 or 3 to 1.

Quite a number of the games were first-class thrillers despite the fact that the boys saved most of their best plays for the tournament games. Last year's Tiger Team made basketball history in Lawrenceburg by going as far as the semi-finals, but from the present outlook, these boys will go them one better and win the State Championship.

We cannot call them a "Wonder Five," though a more accurate name would be "Wonder Ten." The team has worked so well with all combinations of the first ten that five would be an understatement.

Another of the Tigers' outstanding characteristics was their stamina. The boys could start the game with fast breaks and seemingly keep up this pace for the entire game, while their opponents displayed a noticeable "slowing up" at the end of the first half.

As in the football season, the last game spoiled a perfect record. Our Tiger team and 500 well-wishers journeyed to Madison to battle for and watch, respectively, the contest for the Southeastern Conference title. The game was slow in starting and the Madison boys were first to score. In the latter part of the first quarter our boys racked up several points in rapid succession, and seemed to far-and-away outclass the Madison quintet.

After this burst of speed, our Tigers couldn't seem to connect with the hoop, though they had possession of the ball almost three-fourths of the time. After leading during half the game by 8 to 11 points, the Madison boys seemed to give way at the end of the game. As the second hand approached 60, the Tigers made the score almost even. With practically no time left and being under great strain, their last basket failed to connect. As the final gun sounded, the score stood 44-41 in Madison's favor.

SEASON'S RECORD AND SCORES

VERSAILLES

Opening the '46-'47 season on their home floor, Lawrenceburg doubled the score against the Frenchies trimming them 44-22.

FRANKLIN

After trailing most of the way, the initial contest between the Grizzly Cubs and the L.C.H.S. hoopsters was won by the Tigers 39-35.

MADISON

What was billed as a toss-up game was really a runaway for the Tiger team. The Cubs were battered to a 34-25 decision.

BATESVILLE

The Bulldogs put up a good fight, but were overpowered in the last few minutes. Final score: 31-25.

NORTH VERNON

The subs came within seven points of outscoring the regulars, as the Bateman quintet smothered the Panthers 49-36.

GREENSBURG

The Pirates walked the plank this time, falling before the big guns of the local hoopsters, 46-36. Bill Tibbetts led his team to victory with 18 markers.

NEW YEAR'S DAY TOURNEY

Those who braved the ice to North Vernon saw the Tigers add two more to their already long string of victories. In the afternoon contest, Batesville was overpowered 57-24; in the final contest, North Vernon, doing little to stop our offensive drive, dropped a 48-30 score.

SCOTTSBURG

Playing in their new gold, trimmed in black, uniforms for the first time, the Bateman quintet mowed down the Warriors holding an overwhelming 41-42 advantage at the final gun.

AURORA

Hard pressed the first three periods, the Tiger squad poured in 22 points in the final quarter. The presence of a number of scouts required the boys to work for their 44-22 decision.

LIBERTY

4,000 fans jammed the Trueblood Fieldhouse at Earlham College, Richmond, to watch two undefeated teams tangle. Jay Fletcher was instrumental in snapping the 14-game winning streak of Liberty, throwing in 13 points as the Orange and Black edged the Warriors 32-30.

NORTH VERNON

After three hectic quarters, "Deke" Freeland pumped in nine points in the last stanza to lead the Tiger team to a 39-26 final.

BATESVILLE

Snapping out of their mid-season slump, the home town team garnered 50 points, while holding the defensive Bulldogs to 13.

RUSHVILLE

After a shaky first quarter, the Tigers won this one for Tibbetts, who was on the sick list. Lawrenceburg 52, Rushville 30.

HAGERSTOWN

The sportswriters who picked Hagerstown by eight or more points were sadly mistaken. Gene Bonfer and "Deke" Freeland paced the local squad to a 43-28 victory.

PAOLI

This was another new team, but the Tigers took Paoli in their stride 46-26.

BROWNSTOWN

The Bears were hot, but not hot enough, as the night after the Paoli tangle, the local hoopsters drifted to a 38-29 decision.

MADISON

Possibly due to overconfidence, the Tigers suffered their first defeat of this season, which gave them, even so, the very good record of 19 wins and only 1 loss.

AURORA SECTIONAL

Tigers showed strength and power, winning the Aurora Sectional for the third consecutive year. First victim was Moores Hill. Lawrenceburg 54, Moores Hill 26. Aurora did little better, losing 58-34, Saturday afternoon, while the Bright Panthers, in the final game, were humbled 65-30.

RUSHVILLE REGIONAL

Everton's Bearcats were thumped by the Tiger basketeters, 47-30, and Napoleon, winner of a 48-47 contest over Arlington in the second game of the afternoon, was Lawrenceburg's opponent in the night encounter. The Bateman squad tallied 25 times from the field, and left the floor on the long end of a 59-35 score and the Regional crown.

TIGER CUBS

Almost as good a record as their big brothers, the Tigers, the Tiger Cubs have lost only three games, while coming out on the long end of the score 13 times.

Their victories include a 22-15 and a 40-11 win over the Aurora Imps; two wins from Batesville, 25-12 and 32-13 and two over the North Vernon seconds, one a 26-2 drubbing, and the other a 29-17 spanking. After taking the opener from Versailles 32-17, the Cubs lost a heart-breaker to the Franklin seconds 20-18.

Getting back in the winning column, the "Wonder Five" trounced Connersville 29-20. Next on the schedule was Madison. The Cubs from Madison had a slight edge over the Tiger Cubs and defeated them 34-27. Out for revenge, in their second meeting the Cubs took it on the chin again, 29-20. By this win the Madison seconds completed their season without a defeat.

FIRST ROW: L. Brunner, C. Hunter, J. Merrit, C. Dietrich, W. Romer, M. Lacey, J. Hafenbrittle, D. McCool, F. Young.

SECOND ROW: Coach Bateman, W. Jones, J. Clark, J. Brunner, J. Gordon, W. Tonne, D. Yandles, J. Glatz, Coach O'Neill.

The Cubs played some thrilling preliminaries, but the Liberty tussle took honors for the best thriller. Bill Tonne, in an overtime game, sunk a charity toss to post a 20-19 victory over the Liberty seconds.

In another game, won by one point, after trailing until the final frame, the home town hoopsters edged the Greenburg seconds 24-23. The Rushville tilt was a see-saw affair with the score changing hands a number of times, but the Rushville B team finally toppled 25-24.

Several other games were run-aways, and, as the scorebook shows, the Scottsburg game was a field day for the Cubs. Score was 56-8, Lawrenceburg. Hagerstown seconds were the last team to fall before the Lawrenceburg seconds, the score being 37-16.

INTRAMURALS

Another generous citizen of our community has presented to the students of L.C.H.S. a trophy which has been appropriately named for the donor, the Neal Savage Football Trophy.

Presented to the outstanding football player of the year, it was first awarded for the 1945 season. Robert Cooley, then only a sophomore, was the first recipient with Paul Tremain, initial winner of the Roy B. Neary Memorial Trophy, this year's winner.

Although the winner's name will be engraved on the trophy, it will not be his to keep for one year, as are the three other trophies. Since it is presented to the school, it will be kept in the trophy case.

A veteran of World War I, Mr. Savage was appointed a deputy sheriff to keep order at the home football and basketball games of the Tiger squads. With the money derived from this service, in the past two years, he very unselfishly bought the trophy, which now stands erect in the trophy case.

The promotion of good sportsmanship and a better knowledge of basketball are two of the reasons why Mr. Wright and Mr. Griggs have given so much of their time as sponsors of the intramural program.

Since basketball is the "king sport" of Indiana, and there is not enough interest shown in other sports, only basketball is played by intramural participants.

All games were played in the Tigers' den on Monday evenings with varsity basketball boys officiating. The sponsors also were on hand fulfilling their duties.

Eleven teams, two from the sophomore class and three, each representing the remaining classes, competed with the Senior A squad, holders of an unblemished 9-0 record and, at this writing, the top team. Close behind Senior A was the Junior B, beaten only by the all-conquering seniors.

After the regular season, the sponsors planned to have a round robin tourney with the last two remaining teams fighting it out before a convocation.

CLYDE SCHEIBLER

Since its opening on October 5, 1937, Mr. Scheibler, as custodian of building and grounds, has served the Lawrenceburg Consolidated High School faithfully and well. Students and faculty alike appreciate the careful attention given to cleanliness and order. Visitors, too, remark upon the fine appearance of classrooms and corridors. Mr. Scheibler is always courteous and helpful to every one.

REMEMBER?

The Greenies, as they were (and still are) popularly called, were a great class. Remember when you were a Freshman? You scurried around, always afraid you'd be late or do something wrong. Every time an upper-classman breezed past, you kinda got out of the way—you felt so new and strange; a little as if you didn't quite belong. You had a swell year though, even if you didn't like Latin and thought Algebra was strictly for the birds.

Then a little "Green" wore off and you were a Saucy Sophomore. You weren't a Freshie any longer but still you weren't a Junior. It was the in-between class. You were pretty much at home, now, but still graduation was a long way off. Some of the boys played basketball and football; others played in the band. The girls were cheerleaders, office pages, or horn-tooters.

Well, you survived that year, and then you were a Jaunty Junior. You looked forward to the Prom and worked hard for it. Some of you were in the class play, and others worked on stage crews, made posters, and really worked hard selling tickets. You worked on the Annual Staff and had your two-cents worth in the L Hi News. Gee! you had fun that year!

Finally you made it. A Sophisticated Senior at last. You knew just about all there was to know, you thought. Of course, I don't suppose your class ever had "Senioritis," did it? Weren't you bossy? Anyhow you were an example for the rest of the school, or at least supposed to be. Remember Senior Week, the Prom, the Baccalaureate Service, and at last, Graduation—a night you'll long remember for its laughter and tears.

Sometimes you loved it, sometimes you were bored; sometimes you were disgusted, but still you hated to leave. Your fondest memories of school days came from dear, old Lawrenceburg High.

—Margaret Unger

TRUE FRIENDS

True friends are people you cannot find,
By the dozen all around,
True friends are people you wish you had,
When a favor rolls around.
A true friend would do for you,
Anything in the world,
No matter how or when or where,
The task would be unfurled.

SO YOU WANT TO BE A DETECTIVE

The night was still and dark; the house was large and lonely; the hour was growing late as Will Getem settled himself in the big armchair by the fire and prepared to spend the evening in concentrated study. Not a study of history, or math or English, mind you, but a study of murder.

Will took off his shoes, pulled the chair closer to the fire, lighted his pipe, and picked up his book. He was a small man with straight brown hair that never stayed where it should be, and dark horn-rimmed glasses that helped to give him the look of a foreigner. He loved to read and lived in a world of make-believe, for he was the kind who always craved excitement but could never gather together enough nerve to create it.

The book was the small, pocket-size and had a picture of a dead man on the front. At the top, in large print, it read, "So You Want To Be a Detective." Unconsciously, Will nodded and turned to the first page. To be a detective had been his greatest ambition but now, after ten years as a bank teller, his future seemed to be laid out before him and nowhere could Will see any chance for a change.

As he read through the book, Will played the part of each famous, cunning detective in turn and it was with regret that he at last reached the last page, and seeing that the fire had slowly burned to ashes, left his chair and went upstairs to bed.

The next day was Saturday and all morning Will looked forward to his afternoon off, for then he could go to the Art Museum to see the exhibit of weapons used by the well-known Beatrap brothers who had at last been caught and hanged.

There were not many people at the museum, for the day was dreary and it looked like it would rain. Will made his way from one hallway to another until he came to the exhibit. He looked carefully at each article and shuddered at the thought of any of them being used on him.

"But what caused this?" In a small case near the corner, Will noticed that one of the weapons was missing. The card beneath the empty space said, "Knife used in the killing of J. Merriman Smith. Noted for the strange wording carved on the handle, 'Death was the reward.' Carried by Lip Beatrap."

Will wondered what could have happened to the knife. He began to look around the room to see if it could have in some way fallen out. It was then that he saw the blood in front of the largest case. It was still wet and could not have been there long. It looked as though something had been dragged away and Will followed the stains around to the back of the case. There, lying in a pool of blood, was a large-framed, heavy-set man. Will felt his heart and knew he was dead. He began looking through the man's clothes for some means of identification. The name in his wallet was Gerald P. Moneyman. He recognized him as the man who owned the exhibit. Mr. Moneyman had been known to spend large amounts of money on his collection of weapons. Will suddenly noticed a knife lying on the floor about five feet from the dead man. Next to the knife was a note that read, "All who had any connections with the conviction of the Beatrap brothers shall receive death as a reward."

Will hurriedly picked up the knife. On the handle were the words that marked it as the missing weapon from the exhibit. He was so excited that he found he was shivering. He had never before come to a situation like this. Who could have murdered this man? And why? Certainly didn't have much connection with the Beatrap brothers. Only that he collected their weapons. Even a person trying to get revenge would not pick on Gerald P. Moneyman. It would seem more likely that the judge or attorney or jury would be killed. But Moneyman was only the first on the list. Will jumped to his feet and ran to call the police.

After two hours of solid questioning, Will was told he could go home but to stay within a certain area in case he would be needed. But Will felt he was too involved to stop now. He was determined to investigate this murder. This was his big chance. He remembered all the things he had learned from his books. He sat down to try to figure out what to do.

Mr. Moneyman was a bachelor and had no relatives living near. Certainly there were no reasons to suspect them. The police had called in some of the servants who had stated that Mr. Moneyman had been well liked by everyone and had no known enemies. Will decided that his one clue was the note left near the dead man. The fact that he was killed beside the exhibit, with a weapon which was once a part of the exhibit showed that Will's first motive of revenge must be the right one. But who would want revenge? Perhaps a friend of the criminals, or better still, perhaps a relative. Maybe someone who valued the weapons differently from the way Gerald Moneyman valued them. Someone who did not want their weapons put on display to let the world know what ruthless killers the Beatraps were.

Will made his way back to the police station. He finally talked the head detective into letting him see the records of the convicted criminals. He took down the name of their best friend. Then he saw what he knew was his answer. Lip and Loopy Beatrap had had a younger brother. The boy must be in his early twenties now. He was residing in the lower part of the city. Will discovered that the friend had died in a train wreck and he was convinced that Mouse Beatrap was the killer.

He rushed to warn the others connected with the Beatrap trial. He could see the papers already. "Will Getem Got His Man." For he knew he was right. He would find Mouse. He would save many lives in doing so. He would be a hero. First he called the intended victims. But none of them answered their phones. Will didn't know what to do. Perhaps the killer had reached them already. Maybe they were all dead.

Will hurried back to the police station. He ran up to the detective and told him the whole terrible story. Will was so excited that his glasses had fallen down on his nose. His tie was loose and he was stuttering. The detective tried to calm him down. Finally Will sat down and took the glass of water that the detective handed to him. He felt a little better. His heart-beat had slowed down some.

Then the detective handed Will the latest paper. The headlines read "Moneyman Killer Found by Police." Will couldn't believe it. As he read on, he found out why the others hadn't answered their phones. They had been at the police station with the detective. But how had they known the killer? Surely they couldn't have discovered that the Beatraps had a brother any faster than he had.

The detective tried to explain. The knife had been examined for fingerprints and Mouse had been traced that way. Will sadly left the station and made his way back to the large and lonely house. It was dark again and the night was still. Will made a fire in the fireplace and pulled his chair closer. He went over to the bookcase and took out a pocket-sized book. On the front in big print it read, "So You Are Interested in Banking." Will took off his shoes and began to read the book.

HOMES WITH A STORY

Did you ever notice, as you were speeding down a city street or highway, the odd assortment of homes? Within every home lies a different situation, which if you were able to look upon, might prove to be very interesting or maybe even tragic. Every home has a story.

In a gray, gloomy tenement in the poorer section of town, you might find a perfectly happy family, accepting what God had chosen as their fate with a happy heart, striving to make the best of it and still remain cheerful. In contrast to this, you might pass a beautiful, costly home that leaves the impression of luxury and happiness. You would probably be left with the thought that the owner wanted for nothing. However, if you looked in, perhaps the home would be one overcast with shadows of gloom and turmoil due to an unhappiness money could not repair.

There are homes in which murders have been committed, marriages have been performed, babies have been born and great people have lived. In a very simple construction of logs even lacking a floor, one of the greatest men in history was born. His name was Abraham Lincoln, sixteenth president of the United States.

During World War II, many people saw their homes meet with the violent destruction of warfare. Many of these people went to destruction along with their homes.

Yes, if all the mansions, shanties, castles, bungalows and tenements could become authors of as many different characters as their appearances, perhaps many new and great novels would be written.

THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS

It was the night before Christmas and all through the house not a creature was stirring but my little brother, Harold.

My mother, dad, two sisters and I were in the kitchen eating popcorn. No one had noticed the disappearance of my brother who was two years old.

All of a sudden there was a noise, then a crash, then another crash. What had happened?

Everyone jumped up as fast as they could and ran to the living room. There was Harold taking the Christmas tree ornaments from the tree and throwing them on the floor. He had tinsel from the tip of his head to the bottom of his toes.

After we had the tree and Harold back to normal, we went back to the kitchen to finish our popcorn. Again, Harold disappeared without being noticed. When we looked, he was sampling the candy. Pieces of candy were strewn about half eaten.

It was about half past eleven, so we decided to go to Midnight Mass. Mother stayed home with Harold.

When we returned from Midnight Mass, Mother was asleep. We found Harold by the Christmas tree unwrapping the presents.

All the excitement woke up Mother. Someone suggested that we stay up and celebrate Christmas. So may I say, "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to All."
